Course Overview:

The course is designed to equip professionals with essential skills in branding strategy and brand management. In today's competitive landscape, understanding customer-based brand equity, brand positioning, and brand identity is crucial for building a strong market presence. This course covers key aspects such as brand elements, brand awareness, and brand image, providing a comprehensive foundation for participants. With an emphasis on building brand equity through effective brand marketing programs, attendees will learn to assess brand performance and foster brand loyalty. The program integrates integrated marketing communications and a robust marketing communications strategy to enhance the brand value chain. Participants will also explore brand architecture and brand extension strategies, allowing them to implement effective brand equity measurement techniques and conduct brand audits. This training is ideal for individuals looking to navigate the challenges of digital branding, brand differentiation, and emotional branding, ultimately leading to successful branding case studies and revitalization strategies.
