FAQ

- What specific qualifications or prerequisites are needed for participants before enrolling in the course?

No prior ISO 22000 certification is required. However, knowledge of food safety management or experience in the food industry is beneficial.

How long is each day's session, and what is the total duration of the course? •

Each session lasts 4-5 hours, with breaks and interactive discussions. The total course duration is five days, approximately 20-25 hours.

What is the difference between ISO 22000 lead auditor and ISO 22000 lead implementer roles? •

An ISO 22000 lead auditor focuses on FSMS audit training and ensures compliance with ISO 19011 internal audit guidelines. An ISO 22000 lead implementer focuses on FSMS implementation steps and manages ISO 22000 hazard control and risk management.

How This Course is Different from Other ISO 22000 Courses

The course emphasizes a practical, industry-focused approach. It includes case studies, interactive Q&A sessions, and hands-on FSMS documentation training to prepare professionals for ISO 22000 certification exams and audits. This course provides essential knowledge for food safety policies and compliance, benefiting both small and large enterprises.
